

Lydmor

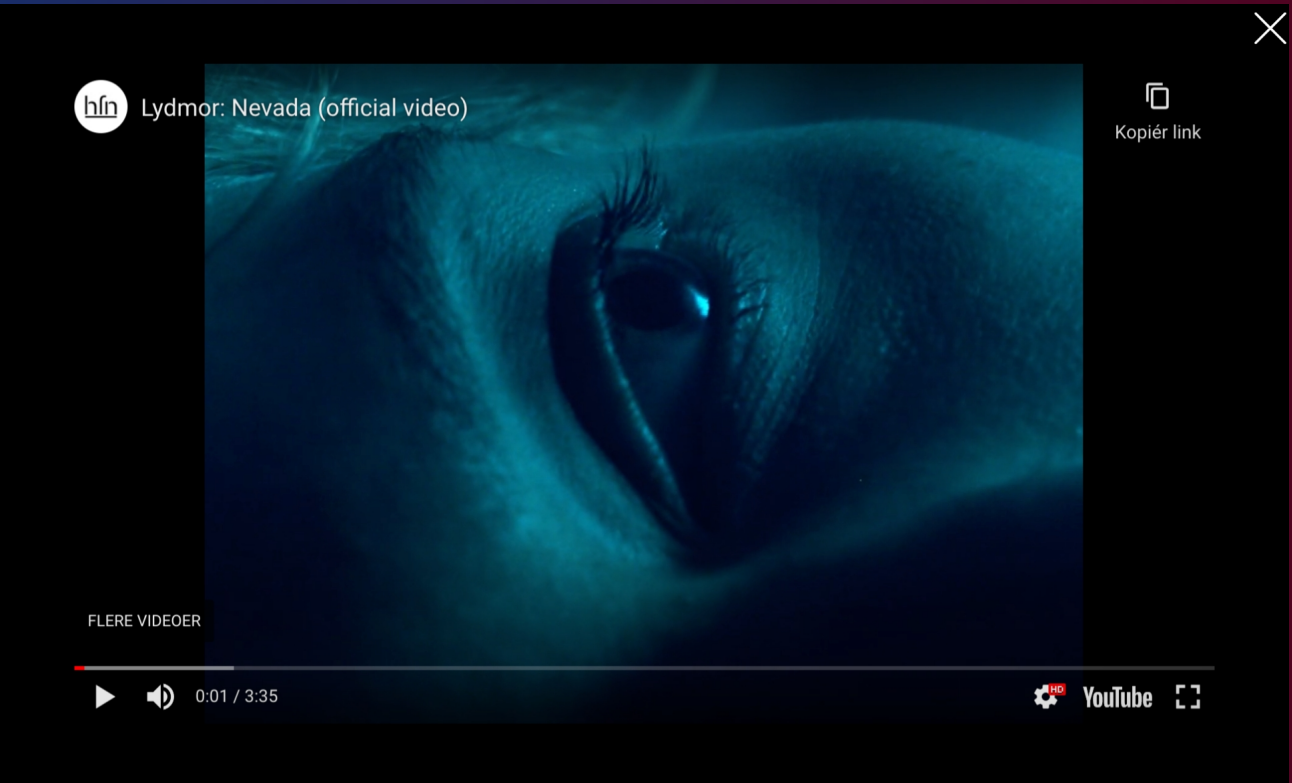

Imagine yourself on the top floor of the highest skyscraper in Shanghai, buildings reaching as far as the horizon. This is where Danish singer and songwriter Jenny Rossander, aka Lydmor, found herself, both in a figurative and literal way. Her newest album, I Told You I'd Tell Them Our Story, is set to release in September and can best be described as an emotional, electronic and relatable journey to self-discovery. We met with her as she was taking a break and folding her laundry in between a busy life of festivals and tours, to chat about conveying emotions, sending political messages and soundtracking Greek tragedies.
